

Janet is very happy to be part of Dance Manitoba and is excited to adjudicate the many fine dancers here!

Janet is originally from Saskatoon, Saskatchewan where her love of dance and musical theatre performance began. She trained extensively at George Brown College in Toronto as well as many other studios in Toronto, New York and London, England. Her performance career spanned 25 years and took her all around the world. Some high lights include being in the original companies of 'Cats' (Elgin Theatre and Massey Hall) and 'Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat', with the incomparable Donny Osmond. She has had the pleasure of working with Liza Minnelli in the film 'Stepping Out'. Her most recent dance performance was with the Canadian Opera Company's production of 'War and Peace' at the Four Seasons Centre for the Performing Arts. For the past ten years Janet has concentrated on teaching and choreography. She was a faculty member of the prestigious Musical Theatre Professional Program at Sheridan College for six years. She has co-choreographed with her husband, Glen Kerr, two productions of 'Could You Wait' with Tony nominated star Louise Pitre. For the past eight years Janet has been choreographing and teaching for Toronto Youth Musical Theatre Company. This company works with passionate young performers and helps build their love of musical theatre. She has adjudicated dance festivals across Canada.
